Radio Rides the Range: A Reference Guide to Western Drama on the Air, 1929-1967

Edited by Jack French and David S. Siegel

ISBN: 978-0-7864-7146-1

300 pages, 20 photos, bibliography, indexed, appendices

Softcover (7 X 10)

Price: $ 49.95

About this Book:

This encyclopedia-type book examines every western radio series, totaling over a hundred, from Empire Builders starring Don Ameche in 1929 to AFRS's When the West Was Young with Herb Ellis and Harry Bartell in 1967. Each entry on a series includes origin, scenario summary, identity of cast, director, writers, and other personnel. Number of surviving audio copies is set forth as well as location of existing scripts. Other pertinent information regarding the show, including network, duration of run, musical theme, sponsor, etc. is detailed.

Every type of western radio program is covered, which encompasses five categories: Anthology programs (Frontier Fighters, When the West Was Young, Phoenix Sun Ranch Chuck Wagon, etc.), Juvenile Adventures (Tom Mix, Straight Arrow, Red Ryder, etc.), Legend & Lore (Lone Wolf Tribe, Red Goose Indian Tales, Chief Gray Wolf, etc.), Adult Westerns (Gunsmoke, Ft. Laramie, The Six Shooter, etc.) and Soap Operas (A Woman of America, Cactus Kate, Lone Journey.)

Twenty OTR experts contributed at least one series entry to this volume and their biographies are set forth in the book. Will Hutchins, TV's Sugarfoot, contributed the foreword, and both Fran Striker, Jr. and Frank Bresee have endorsed it.

About the Editors:

David S. Siegel of Yorktown Heights, NY is an award winning author and his vast radio archival collection is among the largest in private hands. He has been collecting OTR audio copies, scripts, magazines, books, and related materials for over 50 years. David is the editor, author, or co-author of seven prior books on the Golden Age of Broadcasting. He has been honored with both the Allen Rockford and Ray Stanich Awards for his dedicated work.

Jack French of Fairfax, VA has been researching and writing about OTR for the past 40 years. He is the former editor of NARA NEWS and the current editor of RADIO RECALL. His first book, Private Eyelashes: Radio's Lady Detectives, received the Agatha Award for Best nonfiction. Jack's articles about the Golden Age of Radio appear in countless magazines and on the Internet. He is the recipient of the Stone/Waterman Award, the Rockford Award, the Dave Warren Award, and the Stanich Award.

This is one of the most informative books on OTR ever written. I used much of the material to update my Ultimate History. Jay

Radio After the Golden Age

The Evolution of American Broadcasting Since 1960

by Jim Cox

Print ISBN: 978-0-7864-7434-9

Ebook ISBN: 978-1-4766-1209-6

appendix, notes, bibliography, index

264pp. softcover (6 x 9) 2013

Price: $45.00

About the Book

What became of radio after its Golden Age ended about 1960? Not long ago Arbitron found that almost 93 percent of Americans age 12 and older are regular radio listeners, a higher percentage than those turning to television, magazines, newspapers, or the Internet. But the sounds they hear now barely resemble those of radio's heyday when it had little competition as a mass entertainment and information source.

Much has transpired in the past fifty-plus years: a proliferation of disc jockeys, narrowcasting, the FM band, satellites, automation, talk, ethnicity, media empires, Internet streaming and gadgets galore... Deregulation, payola, HD radio, pirate radio, the fall of transcontinental networks, the rise of local stations, conglomerate ownership, and radio's future landscape are examined in detail. Radio has lost a bit of influence yet it continues to inspire stunning innovations.

About the Author

Jim Cox, a leading radio historian, is an award-winning author of numerous books on the subject. A retired college professor, he lives in Louisville, Kentucky.

The Early Shortwave Stations

A Broadcasting History Through 1945

by Jerome S. Berg

Print ISBN: 978-0-7864-7411-0

Ebook ISBN: 978-1-4766-0474-9

118 photos, appendix, notes, bibliography, index
340pp. softcover (7 x 10) 2013

Price: $45.00

About the Book

In July 1923, less than three years after Westinghouse station KDKA signed on, company engineer Frank Conrad began regular simulcasting of its programs on a frequency in the newly-discovered shortwave range. It was an important event in a technological revolution that would make dependable worldwide radio communication possible for the first time. In subsequent years, countless stations in practically all countries followed suit, taking to shortwave to extend reception domestically or reach audiences thousands of miles away. Shortwave broadcasting would also have an important role in World War II and in the Cold War.

In this, his fourth book on shortwave broadcast history, the author revisits the period of his earlier work, On the Short Waves, 1923-1945, and focuses on the stations that were on the air in those early days. The year-by-year account chronicles the birth and operation of the large international broadcasters, as well as the numerous smaller stations that were a great attraction to the DXers, or long-distance radio enthusiasts, of the time. With more than 100 illustrations and extensive notes, bibliography and index, the book is also a valuable starting point for further study and research.

About the Author

Jerome S. Berg, an attorney, was the court administrator for the Massachusetts District Court system until his retirement. A shortwave listener for more than half a century, he is a member of the executive council of the North American Shortwave Association and chair of the Committee to Preserve Radio Verifications.

LIFE IN THE PAST LANE, VOLUME 1 by Jason Hill

Product Code: 978-1-59393-746-1

Availability: In Stock

Price: $24.95

Let me say a few words about who should really take credit for this book and the two volumes that will soon follow it.

It all began over twenty five years ago when I was looking for some way to enhance my radio show which I called Life in the Past Lane. At the time I was doing much the same thing that many others have done. I was simply replaying radio shows of the past and talking about them. I got to thinking about the many performers and technicians who made them and were still around at that time. Why not call them up, talk with them and then play the results on the air?

To make a long story short, I developed a sort of Hollywood and New York underground and managed to get access to some hard to come by phone numbers. Much to my surprise, those folks were all more than willing to talk at length about their careers and their lives.

It went so well that I decided to expand the project and include theatre, movies, early television and some fine musicians. The end result was that, over a two year span I was able to record over eighty extensive interviews with some of the people who made media history. Therefore—they are the ones who wrote this book. All I did was pull it together.

1) True Boardman-child actor in silent films & long time writer, producer and director for radio and television.

2) Irving Fein-personal manager and agent for both Jack Benny & George Burns.

3) Susan Sackett & Cheryl Blythe-Biographers of George Burns & Gracie Allen.

4) Dick Jurgens-Swing Band Leader.

5) Frank DeVol-Musician, Arranger and actor.

6) Lina Romay-Singer with Xavier Cugat.

7) Joan Peyser-Biographer of Leonard Bernstein.

8) Janet Waldo-Many radio roles-Voice of Judy Jetson.

9) Mel Blanc-Man of 1000 voices.

10) Ralph Bellamy-Over 80 film roles.

11) Evelyn Keyes-Many movies including Gone With the Wind.

12) Bill Dakota-Director of the James Dean Foundation.

13) Jerome Lawrence & Robert E. Lee-Inherit the Wind, Mame and many other plays.

14) Arch Oboler-Writer, Producer and director of over 800 plays

15) John Houseman-Federal Theatre plus, plus.

16) Elliott Lewis-Mr. Everything in radio.

17) William N. Robson-Radio pioneer and risk taker.

18) Norman Corwin and his Biographer, R. Leroy Bannerman (Both)
